For the Registered Investment Advisor and Investment Committee

Why we are writing

Sanford Coggins spent 16 years as a Vice President of Wealth Management at Merrill Lynch. He knows what a clean placement looks like from your side of the desk. That is how VisionWise Capital is structured.

VisionWise Capital is the rare real estate sponsor founded by a former Registered Investment Advisor. Our compensation is fully disclosed (GP carry plus management fee, no retros to advisors). Our reporting is institutional-grade through AppFolio Investor. Our track record is 12 years, 24 deals, and 23.95% average levered project return — including a -33% paper loss we disclose in every conversation.

We are looking to brief two or three RIA investment committees in the next 90 days. Our preferred entry point is an educational session, not a pitch. If your IC is exploring multifamily real estate as an alternative-asset allocation for accredited clients, we would like to be on the agenda.

Why VisionWise Capital matters to you

- RIA-friendly compensation. GP carry plus management fee, fully disclosed. No retros, no hidden advisor compensation that creates compliance noise.
- Reporting your clients can read. AppFolio Investor portal generates client-friendly statements aligned with your quarterly review cycle.
- Operator quality. We discuss our worst deal (-33% paper loss on 630 W Washington, San Diego) on the first call. Your IC will see how we underwrite, not just how we sell.
- Founded by an RIA. Sanford Coggins is one of few professionals who has transitioned from RIA to RE sponsor. He speaks your language.

How VisionWise Capital operates

We acquire under-managed multifamily property in coastal Southern California — five to seventy-five units, vintage 1940 to 2000 — and improve it to market standard. The playbook is three steps:

- Acquire patiently. We track properties for months at our price, not the seller's. The completeness of our buyer package wins deals where the highest offer does not.
- Modernize in-house. We employ a full-time construction manager with 30 years of experience and roughly 35 in-house tradesmen. The work is not subcontracted to whoever returns the call.

- Move rents to market. Eighteen to twenty-four months later, the property is at market rents and operating at stabilized cap rates. We hold for income or sell for capital appreciation.

Across 24 deals over 12 years, the portfolio has produced 23.95% average levered project returns — including a -33% paper-loss deal we will discuss before any other deal.

Case study one

630 W Washington Avenue — San Diego

Stabilized · 12 units · Acquired December 2021

Headline

Estimated -33.01% levered project return (paper loss, unrealized)

The only deal in the VWC portfolio currently marked at a paper loss. Acquired in the last weeks of 2021, before the rate environment shifted decisively in 2022. VWC has chosen to operate the asset through the cap-rate widening rather than force a disposition into a weak window. Conservative 50% LTV gave VWC the optionality to hold.

What this deal teaches

Honest track records include the deals that didn't work. A 70%–80% LTV operator would face refinance pressure in this rate environment. VWC can wait. The story this asset tells is about leverage discipline — investors who avoided forced losses through 2022–2024 set their LTV ceiling before the cycle turned.

The numbers

Acquisition	$3,530,900 ($294K/unit)
CapEx	$334,949
Total cost	$4,255,203
Loan	$2,118,600 (50% LTV)
Estimated market value	$3,550,000
Estimated paper loss	-$705,203
Levered return (estimated)	-33.01%

Case study two

330 W I Street — Encinitas (North San Diego County)

In renovation · 21 units · Acquired September 2024

Headline

Estimated 38.99% levered project return

VWC's largest acquisition to date — at $13.15M, roughly 2.3x the size of the next-largest VWC transaction. Encinitas is one of the most supply-constrained coastal submarkets in San Diego County. A heavy reposition with $1.2M projected CapEx — the largest CapEx commitment in VWC's history.

What this deal teaches

A live demonstration that VWC's operating model — sub-50% LTV, value-add coastal multifamily, in-house construction — holds at scale. The framework didn't change as the firm grew. Only the deal size did.

The numbers

Acquisition	$13,150,000 ($626K/unit)
CapEx (projected)	$1,200,000
Total cost (projected)	$15,484,500
Loan	$7,750,000 (50% LTV)
Estimated market value	$18,500,000 ($881K/unit)
Estimated profit	$3,015,500
Levered return	38.99%

Our values, briefly

VisionWise Capital is governed by two pairs of values. The first pair — Entrepreneurial, Strategic Thinker, Resolute — describes how we work. The second pair — Faith and Clear Conscience — describes the standard we hold ourselves to.

Committed to investors over projects.

That is not a tagline. It is one of the four enumerated commitments under our Clear Conscience value, and it is what produced the leverage discipline that protected the portfolio through 2022–2024.

Next step

Please reply to schedule a 45-minute IC briefing in person or via video. We will bring the deal-level deck, the worst-deal post-mortem, and a sample reporting package.

An RIA franchise lives on quality of placement, not volume. We take that seriously because we used to be one of you.

With respect,

Sanford D. Coggins
